

Lockheed Martin Aeronautics Recognizes Top Performing Suppliers

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 25, 2016 - Lockheed Martin's (NYSE:LMT) Aeronautics business recently designated 25 small and large businesses as top-performing suppliers for 2015, representing the top 2 percent of a supply base of 1,200 suppliers.

"This award represents high performance and quality standards. To be considered, suppliers must maintain a 99 percent on-time delivery rating with a 100 percent quality rating," said Amy Gowder, vice president, Aeronautics Supply Chain Management and chair of the Lockheed Martin Supply Chain Council. "Suppliers play a vital role in the success of Lockheed Martin's innovative solutions and we acknowledge those who are highly committed to the quality of our products."

For their work in 2015, the top performing suppliers are:

Small Business:

Advanced Defense Solutions LLC, Bloomfield, Connecticut

Provides various forms of elastomeric tape and tape kits in support of the F-35 Program.

Click Bond Inc., Carson City, Nevada

Provides various forms of mechanical hardware and fasteners in support of multiple programs, including the F-35 and F-22.

Davis California Industries Inc., North Hollywood, California

Provides sheet metal and mechanical assemblies to multiple programs.

Fastener Technology Corporation, North Hollywood, California

Provides high-strength aerospace and captive fastening products to multiple programs.

InterConnect Wiring, Fort Worth, Texas

Builds and repairs loose wire assembly kits, electrical panels and wire harnesses for F-16, F-22 and C-130.

Jay-Em Aerospace Inc., Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio

Provides wheels and brakes for the Taiwan F-16 Retrofit Modification Program.

K.T. Engineering Corporation, Rancho Dominguez, California

Provides canopy frames, shear webs and various assemblies for the F-35 program.

M2 Global Technology, San Antonio, Texas

Provides metallic BTP components and assemblies for the F-35, F-22, F-16 and C-130.

R & D Electronics, Brownsboro, Alabama

Builds loose wire assembly kits, electrical panels and wire harnesses for F-16 and C-130.

R.G.H. Associations Inc., West Babylon, New York

Provides CNC and conventional turning, milling and "light" assembly for the F-35, C-130 and C-5.

The McGinty Machine Company Inc., Wichita, Kansas

Provides precision-machined parts that supports the F-22, F-35 and C-130.

Vianh Company Inc., Garden Grove, California

Provides CNC precision machining for the F-35.